Your key. Your hours.

This is the only place on the Wasatch Front where you hold your own key. Shoot at five in the morning or at midnight, bring whoever you want, and keep your own schedule.

A 24/7 key to every range

The range is open whenever you are. Your own code opens any range, any hour, any day — before work, after the house is asleep, on a holiday when everything else is closed. A private range at eleven at night is a luxury that has nothing to do with spending and everything to do with freedom — and for many members, the benefit they use most.

Range Safety Officer certification

Most ranges treat you as a liability to be watched. This one trains you to be trusted: certified as a range safety officer, a real, earned credential, so you run your own line — shoot solo, on your own schedule, and supervise your own guests. It is the difference between renting time and having the run of the place.

Full-auto, checked out to you

Select-fire is what nearly every shooter wants and almost no one gets — the stamps, the paperwork, and the price of a transferable machine gun put it out of reach for all but a few. Certified onto the owner list, you check out Tactical Penguin's full-auto firearms and take them out yourself, including organized outdoor shoots. The trigger time, none of the stamps or liability — the rarest thing on the menu.

Real guns. Live targets. Endless scenarios.

The interactive training system Tactical Penguin built into the club. Real firearms, live-scored drills, and scenarios with no ceiling — you train for what actually matters, and it keeps score.

PROJECTED, INTERACTIVE, SCORED · THE MOST ADVANCED RANGE YOU HAVE SHOT

Real Guns

Every caliber, from a .22 to a .308 battle rifle, detected to your range's specs. No toy guns.

Limitless Scenarios

Dynamic games, moving targets, and scenarios that escalate to match any qualification.

Your Home, Mapped

A force-on-force defensive scenario run on your own floor plan, blind corners, and stairwell.

Advanced Analytics

Personalized feedback, so you know exactly what to practice and in what order.

Built-in Programmability

Customize every drill; build the courses that fit you, your family, and your guests.

Fun & Engaging

Leaderboards for every drill and competitions you can run with your circle.

YOUR HOME · FILMED AND INTERACTIVE

In-home defensive simulation

Defensive skill is only real if it fits the place you would actually use it. AccuShoot brings a filmed, interactive defensive scenario into your own home — your floor plan, your blind corners, your stairwell — so you train for the situation that actually matters instead of a generic lane. It is the kind of preparation that access and resources make possible, and almost no one else can get.

More intensive simulations — extended filming and custom scenario builds — may carry additional charges based on production.

Everyone you bring, taken care of.

Guest Access

Up to four guests free on every visit during business hours. After hours, with you on-site, bring as many as you like and host a private night with the range to yourselves. You become the person who can get other people in.

Four Family Memberships, Included

Four full memberships in your family's own names. They come and shoot on their own, any time during operating hours, with or without you there. Their access does not depend on your visit.

Memberships for Your Circle

Beyond the four that come free, you can add up to twenty-five more memberships a year for family and friends, each at fifteen percent below the standard annual rate. Extend the club outward, and be the one who brings your people in.

First in line, at our cost.

Before a piece reaches the floor or the website, it reaches you. And when you buy, you buy at what Tactical Penguin pays.

THE PIECES WORTH HAVING · YOURS FIRST

First call on rare inventory

The best pieces never reach the case. Estate collections, rare consignments, the collectible that walks through the door once a year — as a Founder you hold a formal, standing right of first refusal before any of it goes public. For a collector, this is the single most valuable thing the club offers: a permanent first call on scarcity. The piece you have hunted for years is far more likely to find you here than anywhere else.

Wholesale access, at cost

Buy the way the shop buys. Guns and accessories are available to you at cost — the dealer's price, without the retail markup. On a serious build or a year of considered acquisitions, that adds up to real money. But more than the number, it changes the relationship: you stop being a customer who gets sold to and become an owner who buys at the owner's price.

One call. It's handled.

One person who knows your collection, your wishlist, and your schedule. No app, no queue. You text; it gets handled.

On call for you

This is the benefit that turns a membership into a club. One call or text and your questions, access, and bookings are handled by a representative whose only job is to serve you. For someone whose time is worth more than the dues, this may quietly be the most valuable benefit of all.

Your personal shopper

They keep your wishlist and shop on your behalf at your at-cost pricing — a personal buyer who already knows what you are after. Tell them what you want; it shows up, at the owner's price.

Your acquisition agent

For the pieces you are hunting: they watch the market, send you the auction alerts, and represent you at the sale. The hunting is handled while you go about your life.

The difference between owning a membership and being looked after is one person. This is that person.

Yours, made yours.

Cerakote, engraving, and gunsmithing, done in-house and priced at materials and labor. Priority work, with a loaner while yours is in the shop.

Cerakote & custom finishes

Make every gun yours, and make it effortless. Any color, any pattern, any piece, finished in-house to your spec, from a single accent to a full build.

Personalization is where a tool becomes a possession worth keeping, and here it is honestly priced and off your plate.

Engraving

Hand over an heirloom to be engraved or a build to be marked, and it comes back unmistakably yours. Custom engraving on receivers, slides, and one-of-a-kind gifts, laser-cut in-house.

Priority gunsmithing

In-house gunsmithing at cost: materials plus labor, no markup. Hand over a build to be tuned or a rifle to be finished in your colors, and it is handled by people who know the work, at the price the shop pays. Repairs, upgrades, and full builds at the front of the queue, with a loaner while yours is in the shop.

A reason to show up.

A calendar of your own. Competition, the new iron before the public sees it, and a seat at the table with the people who make it.

The Founders Cup & tournaments

A range you shoot at is a transaction; a club you belong to has a calendar. Founders get a full season: scheduled competitions with real prize money, member-guest tournaments with trophies, and a season-long Founders Cup with your name on it.

Member nights & speakers

New-arrival nights where you handle the latest before the public does, speaker sessions worth showing up for, and member socials. This is the reason you will actually come in, and the reason it starts to feel like yours.

Vendor & dealer access

Get on the inside of the business most people only buy from. Invitations to vendor and dealer meetings, and to private demos where you put hands on new products before they reach shelves.

Factory tours & SHOT Show

Tours of the factories behind the guns you already own, and travel with the club to SHOT Show, the industry's marquee event, normally closed to the public. Access money usually cannot buy at any price: not a customer being sold to, an insider being shown around.

Training, included

Skill is the part of this world that keeps paying off. Fundamentals through advanced defensive and precision work, taught by Tactical Penguin's instructors, included. Bring your family, drill a specific weakness, or work toward your own RSO certification — instruction others pay for class by class.

On the wall, for good.

Founding membership is limited, and it is numbered. Your name goes on the wall, in perpetuity. The earlier you believe, the lower your number.

N<sup>o.</sup>

FOUNDER · IN PERPETUITY

The Founders' Wall

Your name, numbered and permanent, on the wall for as long as the club exists. Founding membership is limited; once the founding cohort is set, it is set, and the wall records who was here first. It is the one thing here that genuinely cannot be bought later at any price. For the kind of person who values being early and among the few, that permanence is the whole appeal.

Everything else here can be bought. This cannot. It is earned by being first, and kept for as long as there is a wall to hold it.
